RUSSIANS PASS KHARKOV, SPLIT DONETS LINE

Pause Stop in Captured City Long Enough To Gather German Stores.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Aug. 24—The victorious Russian army drove deeper into Kharkov in pursuit of the retreating Germans today and 30 miles to the southeast Red forces were reported to have fought through a breach in the Germans on the lower Donets river.

Red army drives threatened the entire German wing of the German forces anchored on the Donets Army and apparently were executing a master plan to free the entire industrial area in the Donets basin from the grip of the Nazis.

Drive Past Kharkov

A Red army communique broadcast from Moscow last night said the Red army troops which had driven into Kharkov yesterday had driven east, north, and west only long enough to gather up stores of Nazi war materials and then turned west in the direction of the Ukrainian capital of Kiev and the main German defense line along the west bank of the Dnieper river.

Fierce fighting was reported west of Kharkov where the Russians said the Germans had poured large forces of infantry and tanks into desperate but futile counter attacks which cost the Nazis 2,000 dead and 40 tanks.

Russian front line dispatches said that before the collapse of Kharkov's defenses the Nazis had done a methodical job of destroying the city's biggest buildings.

Moscow Celebrates

Moscow celebrated the victory in the personal order to Premier Stalin, who decreed a 30-volley salute from 224 artillery pieces. The Russian leader also conferred the honorary title "Kharkov" upon the Red army units which participated in its capture.

The city was the fourth large German bastion to fall to the Red army in the summer offensive which began July 5. Orel and Belgorod were the first two objectives to fall to the Russians and Karachev next. The Orel-Karachev spearhead is moving toward Bryansk in an effort to strip the rail line which links the city of Kiev.

RETRIBUTION. With a bitter promise of retribution this poster which says "The Day Will Come," is described by the Norwegian Information service as one which has been placed over all Oslo buildings as a warning by the Norwegian underground.

MISS RUTH WISE TO BE IN N. Y. SHOW

Visits Home Here on Way East from Hollywood.

Miss Ruth Wise, daughter of Marion J. Wise, left today for New York City where she will start rehearsals in a Vincent Freedley musical show. Miss Wise arrived last Thursday from Hollywood where she has been studying and working for the last year, for a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Wise at their home at 564 East Church street, before going to New York. She was accompanied here by Richard Longevan, also of Hollywood, who has been a guest at the Wise home and accompanied Miss Wise to New York City where he will start rehearsals in a Max Reinhardt's production "Rosalinda." Mr. Longevan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Longevan of California and New York City.

Miss Wise, who was graduated from Harding High school in 1942, starred in dramatics during her senior year in Hollywood. She appeared in a number of productions just before leaving she and Mr. Longevan had parts in a production "We Shall Not Die," presented as a charity benefit in the Hollywood bowl. Taking part were John Garfield, Edward G. Robinson, Kay Francis and a number of other cinema stars.

Before leaving Hollywood Miss Wise was a guest at a party given by Marlene Dietrich and her daughter, Maria Manton, for a group of students of the Reinhardt production in the Palm Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel. Miss Manton is a student in the school. Enroute here Miss Wise and Mr. Longeven were guests of the latter's uncle, Senator Frank Weaver and Mrs. Weaver of Seattle, Wash., and New York City, in San Francisco.

Miss Wise has chosen as a stage name Carole Ames. She will be seen in the New York production of Louis Sobern, who also is known for Lana Turner. Mr. Longeven's stage name is Richard Lane.

First Step Taken in Campaign for Marion Swimming Pool

Factory Management and Labor Representatives Meet with Recreation Commission; Committees To Be Named.

Preliminary steps in a campaign to provide Marion with a swimming pool were taken last night at a meeting in Hotel Harding sponsored by the Marion Recreation commission and attended by representatives of management and labor of Marion industries.

Representatives of management of 29 industries and labor representatives from 9 plants attended the meeting. In addition there were representatives of other local organizations. About 50 attended in addition to the five members of the commission.

The program as outlined by Recreation Commission chairman Robert T. Mason calls for construction of a pool by subscription of funds from the public, business and industry. The meeting was intended to obtain the reaction of the public to the proposal. Sentiment of those present was favorable and as the first step in perfecting an organization to conduct the campaign Chairman Mason announced the formation of publicity and finance committees.

Start on Committees

Partial selection for the committees was made last night and other selections will be made later. The publicity committee will be headed by Howard Swink and his group is expected to map within a short time a campaign for acquainting the public with the proposal.

It was the consensus of the group that while it may not be possible to start actual construction now, due to war conditions, the present was the opportune time to begin the preliminary phases of the program.

In connection with the pool campaign Mr. Mason announced that the recreation commission was sponsoring a Labor day program at Lincoln park which would take the place of the successful program sponsored last year by the Marion Amateur Day association. The program, under the direction of Vic Dorris, city playground director, will serve as a climax to the city park recreation activities of the summer. Receipts from the sale of tags, to serve as admission to the Labor day program, will go to the recreation commission and will assist ultimately in the pool program.

In opening the meeting Chairman Mason pointed to the fact that other towns around Marion—Marysville, Mt. Gilead, Galion, Bucyrus and Upper Sandusky—supported swimming pools and that a large number of Marion residents patronized them regularly. The pools, he said, are self supporting.

Support Proposal

Other members of the commission who spoke in support of the project were U. A. Nystrom, Herbert L. Wade, Frank Robinson and J. D. Torrance.

As a starter in the fund campaign Marion Hinklin, chairman of the Marion Amateur Day association that staged the program last year which was financially successful, reported that the association was ready to turn over $1,000 to assist in the payment for the pool commission for construction of the pool.

While no definite figure has been determined as to the exact cost of a pool, members of the commission reported that investigations of pool construction in other cities led them to believe the minimum project would be in the neighborhood of $75,000.

CITY BUDGET GIVEN OKAY

Council Approves 1944 Fund Requests Including 10 Per Cent Fire, Police Raises.

A city budget asking for enough money to give police and firemen a 10 per cent pay increase was approved by city council last night.

Originally, the budget figures were set up to provide a 20 per cent pay boost as requested by both departments to meet increased living costs, but when officials began reconciling their proposed 1944 expenditures with the revenue in sight, the figures simmered down to a 10 per cent increase.

The proposed pay boosts, unless some other items of municipal expense can be eliminated, still face some obstacles. The budget must go to the county budget commission, which has the problem of reconciling the financial requests of all the subdivisions with the realty tax rates it is permitted by law to set up for 1944. Usually the subdivisions get considerably less than they ask for.

Amount of Pay Boosts

Officials estimate that the 10 per cent boosts will amount to $7,505 for the fire department and $4,937 for the police department.

The total budget calls for $488,185 to operate the city next year, substantially more than the $429,505 which is expected to be the total cost for this year's operation. The city has some additional revenue in sight for 1944, as compared with 1943, but to reach its proposed 1944 program it will have to get $130,000 out of real estate taxes as compared with $110,000 this year, and will need $40,000 from the classified personal tax as compared with $35,000 this year. Parking meters are expected to bring in $25,000 next year—all of it in the clear since council recently finished paying for the meters. Liquor revenue is expected to amount to $20,000. The hospital, garbage department, municipal court and other sources of revenue are expected to round out the total to "balance" the budget if the increased real es-

3 IN DETROIT SEIZED BY FBI

Trio Charged with Espionage in Behalf of Nazi Germany.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 The justice department reported today the arrests on espionage charges of an attractive 34-year-old woman and two alleged accomplices for giving war information to Nazi Germany.

The arrests in Detroit were the first under the wartime espionage act which provides a maximum death penalty. Simultaneously, the department announced arrest of two unnamed German aliens, both women, in the city.

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, said activities of the ring centered on Grace Buchanan-Duncen who was described as an "attractive, well-educated descendant of French nobility." The other two held on espionage charges were identified as Theresa Behrens, 44, and Dr. Fred William Thomas, 44, a surgeon, both of Detroit.

Nature of Complaints

The complaints, climaxing an investigation began in 1939, were filed before U. S. Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd in Detroit. They charged that:

Theresa Behrens secured information as to the location of the manufacturing plant of the Pullman company of Chicago, the number of employes engaged by the company in manufacturing war material, the kind of war material then being manufactured by the company, and the transportation of war materials.

Dr. Thomas secured information as to the number and location of certain plants of the West-

REVEAL PLAN AS TALKS AT QUEBEC END

Roosevelt and Churchill Hold Press Conference as Final Act of Meeting.

By The Associated Press

QUEBEC, Aug. 24—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill ended the Quebec war conference today with a statement which is expected to mean that the essential decisions have been taken to prepare for the forceful action of the fleets, armies and air forces of Britain and the United States.

The President and prime minister brought their meeting here to an end at a press conference on the terrace of the citadel where they have been deliberating for eight days.

Nothing of the strategy directives which have been sent to military commanders in the field was disclosed. But the two leaders spoke with utter confidence of the future.

In their formal statement, Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill said they had decided to confer again before the end of the year, "in addition to any tri-partite meeting which it may be possible to arrange with Soviet Russia."

Russia to be Advised

They said full reports of the decisions reached here, so far as they affect the war in Europe, would be supplied to the Russian government.

Churchill made it clear that the war against Japan had held an important spot on the Quebec conference agenda. Russia is not fighting Japan, and the prime minister left the definite impression that she had not been invited to send representatives here for that reason.

The two allied leaders disclosed also that consideration had been given to the question of the French committee for national liberation and said announcements might be expected in that connection over the week-end from many governments.

The noon gun boomed from the bastions of the ancient citadel just before the President, Churchill and Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada appeared on the upper bastion of the king's terrace, posed for photographs for four minutes, then began their press conference. In line with a pattern followed by Casablanca last winter, no questions were permitted.

Survey Whole Field

Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill said they had surveyed "the whole

ACT TO FREE ROME OF ARMS

City To Be Demilitarized To End Bombings by Allied Planes.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 24 Italy has formally advised the British and American governments of steps taken to demilitarize Rome with the view of having the Italian capital treated as an open city, a Stefani broadcast recorded by The Associated Press said today.

A Rome radio broadcast Aug. 14 said the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio had decided to declare Rome an open city without further delay.

The broadcast added that such a decision had been communicated to the allies through the Vatican two weeks previously.

It said the decision had been made because of the repetition of allied air raids on the city. American bombers first attacked the Italian capital July 19 and returned there on Aug. 13.

Today's Stefani broadcast declared steps had already been taken to neutralize defensive installations and orders had been given to anti-aircraft batteries not to fire on planes over the city, while Italian interceptor planes were directed not to defend the capital.

Stefani added that the Italian government had asked "the Swiss government and the Holy See to notify the governments of London and Washington that the Italian government had adopted the following measures:

"Defensive installations of the city of Rome have been put out of action and the order has been given to the anti-aircraft batteries not to open fire and to the fighters not to operate over Rome.

"The transfer of the Italian and German commands as well as troops is under way so that only a garrison charged with the maintenance of public order will be left in the city."

NAZI CAPITAL ABLAZE AFTER BIGGEST RAID

RAF Loses 58 Planes, Largest Number Shot Down on One Foray.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 24 British bombers roared back from their Berlin last night in a retaliation raid in which 58 bombers are missing, the R. A. F. bomber command announced today.

It was estimated the RAF cast 2,000 long tons (2,240 lbs.) of bombs upon Berlin, but the largest number of bombers ever lost by the British in one night went down before the German capital's defenses.

The scope of the raid indicated that the allied command was preparing an supreme offensive against the German capital—first of large scale attack since the end of March on a scale comparable to that which crumpled Hamburg into a heap of rubble.

The air ministry communique said that bombers attacked "in very great strength."

"The assault was delivered in clear weather just before midnight and preliminary reports indicated that the bombing was highly concentrated," the bulletin added.

Fifty-five bombers were lost on the double attack on Pilsen in Czechoslovakia and Mannheim, Germany, on the night of April 16.

The Germans, in a series of nervous broadcasts, clearly indicated the scope of the Berlin attack by telling of high explosives and incendiaries falling over a wide area from "large enemy formations." They asserted that at least 50 planes were shot down.

Devastation Great

The devastation was plainly on a scale comparable to the power of the attack. One returning pilot told of smoke boiling up three miles into the sky.

The raid, it was estimated, was about twice as heavy as that ever launched upon any capital.

The RAF has dropped as high as 2,300 long tons of bombs in a single night before this, but never before has approached that figure in an operation of such length, complexity or significance.

Returning airmen told of relatively light Nazi anti-aircraft gunfire but of stern opposition from German fighter planes.

"The Germans put up swarms of fighters," said one. "I have never seen so many before. There were about 20 belts of searchlights inside the capital and around it. These were cooperating with the fighters.

"We streaked across the beams as fast as we could go, and the searchlights came after us. Fights were going on all over the place."

Airmen pictured the German capital as a red chaos of smoke columns from fire and explosions, shining dully even at 15,000 feet.

They said German fighters rode the skies in "desperation squadrons," some of them even flying with navigation lights on.

The biggest explosions were seen in the middle of Berlin, the fliers reported.

German broadcasts insisted that both British and American bombers participated. There was no

Mr. Lamborn, who has been postmaster since Feb. 8, 1934, said he has no plans for the immediate future except to take a rest and a vacation.

DELAWARE WOMAN KILLED IN PLUNGE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 24—Mrs. Eli Long, attractive wife of the widely-known horse breeder, was killed today in a plunge from the sixth floor of the Neil House.

Her body smashed into the awning of a store, and then bounced into a noon-day crowd on busy High street, but no passers-by were injured.

Captain William Murphy of the Detective force said the woman's husband telephoned his attorney, Charles S. Druggan, immediately after seeing his wife fall, and said:

"My wife just went out the window."

Then, Murphy said, Long hurried downstairs and reported the occurrence to the hotel management.

Murphy said Long was too dazed to give an accurate account of what occurred.

The Longs were married four years ago. She was the former Eleanor Beatrice White of Columbus and, after her marriage, became as widely known as her husband in racing circles. Their

"Official Car" Question Keeps Council Busy Till Parking Issue Is Settled

What is an official car?

That question bothered council for nearly 20 minutes last night when the term "official car" came up in an ordinance, eventually adopted with some changes, providing for one-way traffic on Court street between Main street and State street and in the alley running north and south along the east side of the courthouse. The same ordinance limited parking in the alley east of the courthouse to "official cars."

Some councilman popped the question, "What does the ordinance mean by official cars?"

Council President Robert Stief beckoned Robert Kelly, assistant city solicitor, who answered that the expression might be construed in a number of ways. He added council would have to make the ordinance more specific if it wished to eliminate the possible confusion. "I suppose, strictly speaking, official cars would mean those owned by an official subdivision," he remarked.

Some Possibilities

Someone commented, "I suppose on that basis the LaRue fire department could park there anytime."

"Or Governor Bricker," another councilman added.

"How about councilmen?" someone asked. "Let's leave the ordinance just like it is and maybe we can park there."

Council President Stief, whose term is expiring and who is not running for reelection, inquired if council might think of providing for ex-officials as well as those in office.

Getting down to a more serious tone, Councilman Earle Johnson suggested changing the ordinance to "cars being used by county officials." That quickly won favor, but later a few more words were added, "in connection with their official duties."

That seemed to solve the problem of definition to everyone's satisfaction, excepting Councilman Perry Bachelder wondering why the public couldn't park there after 6 o'clock at night. He never did get a satisfactory answer, excepting one councilman remarked that "we'll remember that as a

Allied Bombers Pound Naples Rail Lines Without Opposition

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 24— Allied bomber fleets have hammered two more key railway points near Naples without meeting a single axis defender, while U. S. Liberators sweeping in from the Middle East struck Bari on the southeastern coast, downing 14 enemy planes in a blazing air battle, it was announced today.

None of the Liberators was lost.

No enemy fighters rose to challenge U. S. Medium Mitchells slamming a load of bombs by daylight into Battipaglia, south of Naples, nor British Wellingtons that pounded Bagnoli in Naples' environs before dawn today.

American Warhawks had a similar experience of no opposition in a sweep over Sardinia and a sharp raid upon enemy barracks and factory buildings at Cagliari.

Strings of bombs ripped up the tracks at Battipaglia and some large explosions were seen on the east side of the main yards. Warehouses were hit and fires started. Ground forces threw up a heavy curtain of anti-aircraft fire.

RAF and RCAF Wellingtons concentrated the attack upon Bagnoli into a few minutes and crews reported many direct hits. The raid appeared to have taken the Italians by surprise.

The P-40 Warhawks struck their targets in Sardinia with bombs and cannon fire.

One allied plane was lost in all these operations.

RAF Wellingtons from the Middle East attacked barracks at Lindos on the island of Rhodes.

In five days since last Thursday, allied fliers have sent down at least 146 axis planes in air fights.

Official records at headquarters here show that axis air losses in nine months since the allied landings in North Africa have passed the 4,500 mark. This includes 2,833 destroyed in aerial combat, and about 1,700 captured on airfields in Tunisia, Pantelleria and Sicily, but does not take in the enemy machines blown to pieces on the ground.

WAC Diary No. 6

Full-Fledged WAC at Last

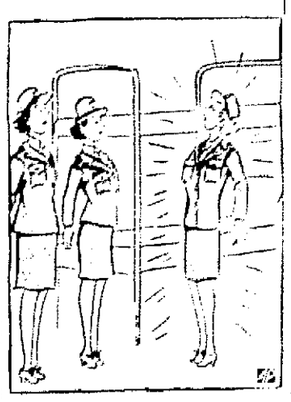
BY CORP. TRUDY WHITMAN



Mid-way through Basic Training, you realize that there is a difference. You are suddenly and pleasantly aware that some of the military information you have been exposed to has settled down upon you. The initial bewilderment is gone. You have been rushing madly from class to class, learning the basic elementary facts of Army organization, military customs and courtesies, and other essentials that help you understand the new life you have become a part of. And suddenly the words are no longer hopelessly jumbled together; they are taking form and shape and you are beginning to understand the pattern of Army life.

The pattern makes sense. In civilian life, discipline is a punishment. In the Army it is a code of conduct and you see that it is necessary for the efficient handling of large numbers of people. You don't resent it at all.

You are still an individual. Your past has not been wiped out by your present, nor is the future any less dear to you. Your personal life is suspended of course and has been ever since America entered the war. You have given up your individual way of living, temporarily, because you felt that by doing things the Army way, you could play an active part in winning toward victory. You are satisfied that your decision was right.

When you first put on your uniform you were surprised and disappointed because it did not at once make you feel trim and military. You were not impressed when you first glimpsed yourself in the mirror. But the uniform soon settles into place and a sense of pride sets in. You have been pleased all along with the appearance of your fellow-trainees and now at long last, you think you, too, are beginning to look like a WAC.

The first time you participate in the weekly regimental review, you are almost overcome at the realization that you are no longer on the side-lines where you are much more accustomed to being, but actually in the line of march. All of us were nervous and uncertain; we didn't do very well. But the next time—ah, that was different. As we stood in formation, waiting for the call to pass in review, it was apparent that something new had been added to our attitude—individually and collectively. We felt that we looked as good as those other companies we had admired and we stepped out with confidence, proud of our straight lines and perfect cadence. We were justifiably thrilled when we won applause as we passed the reviewing stand.

We were proud too in a deeper sense as we saw the other companies assembled on the field. During the week we are so occupied with our daily chores and classes, we see only that small part of the Army in which we move. There is an inevitable tendency to think of our little company as the entire WAC. But on the parade grounds, a sense of perspective returns.

We realize again that thousands of women are in the WAC with us and we hope that thousands more are joining up daily. We know now that the Army needs us: there is a job for each of us to do.

DO YOU WANT AN ESSENTIAL OCCUPATION
WITH A POST-WAR FUTURE?

We need a number of men for permanent positions in "mechanical tabulating equipment mechanics"—officially defined by Selective Service headquarters as an essential occupation.

WE are a large, well-established manufacturer of office machines and equipment. Our entire production is going to war manufacturers and government bureaus. We urgently need men who are mechanically minded—not necessarily with mechanical experience—to keep these essential office machines operating at top speed in war plants and government offices. We teach you everything you need to know about the machines, and we pay you a salary while you are learning. The positions are permanent, with excellent opportunities for advancement.

YOU are a man with a knack for mechanical work, even though you may not be using that knack at present. You are a high-school graduate and U. S. citizen. The armed forces have passed you by, and will continue to do so. You are not doing war work now. You are ambitious, loyal, a good worker, eager to get ahead.

YOU AND WE should get together. Write us a brief confidential letter, telling us about yourself. Give us also your age and phone number. Write today if possible.

Germans Wounded—"But Not Mortally"

CHAPTER 20

THE German army came out of its hibernation like a giant snake, wounded, but still venomously dangerous, stirring from its winter sleep with a violent, deadly flick of its armor-scaled tail. It was not fatally wounded, for it had suffered a setback that was at first galling for its pride, then gangrenous for its morale, and finally gueling for its actual physical strength. But not mortally so. It survived a hostile Russian winter, something Napoleon had not even dared to try, although in doing so it experienced horrible anguish. But, in its turn, it was still able to deliver another all-but-mortal blow.

When the snake gave the first real lick of its tail the crack was heard in Moscow the night of May 11.

'On the Kerch peninsula,' the evening communique said tersely, 'our troops fought hard battles with the enemy who started an offensive.'

The 1942 campaign was on. Actually, it had started three days earlier, May 8, when the Germans launched their attack on Kerch, the northeastern arm of the Crimea. They had chosen their spot cautiously. Kerch was probably the most vulnerable of all the Russian positions. The winter campaign there had not been a complete success. The Red army of the Caucasus had succeeded in crossing the Kerch strait and making a landing, but it lost Feodosia, on its left flank, and failed to take its real objective, Simferopol, in the heart of the Crimea, where it would have relieved the Sebastopol garrison and probably driven the Germans entirely out of the Crimea back to the mainland. Instead, it simply camped on the smaller Kerch peninsula, a threat and a nuisance to the Germans, but itself in an awkward, dangerous position.

The Germans put on their old act of Luftwaffe and Panzer, broke through to Kerch, and drove the Russians back to the Caucasus. They claimed the city and harbor of Kerch May 16. The Russians acknowledged a week later, May 23, that they had evacuated the peninsula. The surprising thing was that this was all the Germans did to open their spring offensive. The breakthrough at the ten-mile neck of the Kerch peninsula was a far cry from the Nazi conquest of the Balkans in May, 1941, and of France in May and June, 1940. Certainly, the snake was wounded.

FOUR days after the Germans started their attack on Kerch, the Russians ventured on their own spring offensive. They mounted a full-scale assault May 12, with artillery and avintion preparation, tank and infantry advance on the Kharkov front. It was their first experiment in Blitzkrieg. 'Molnienosnaya Voina,' of their own making. It did not have the hoped-for withering effect, but neither was it a flash in the pan.

The offensive started along the winter line that ran about fifty miles east of Kharkov and swung southwest near Krasnograd around the salient formed by the Russians through Lozovaya. The German front line was quickly broken, and the Russians advanced into the densely fortified defense zone. There the enemy resisted stubbornly, brought up reinforcements and counter-attacked. Tank battles developed in which the Germans employed their 21st and 23d armored divisions. These veterans proved a difficult foe for the fledgling Russian lightning warriors.

The Germans, meanwhile, mounted a counter-offensive on the Izium-Barvenkovo sector, south of Kharkov, striking at the base of the Red army's Lozovaya salient. The battle eddied back and forth tumultously, with the Russians attacking in the Kharkov front, the Germans in the Izium-Barvenkovo sector; then the Germans counterattacking on the Kharkov front, the Russians in the Izium-Barvenkovo sector.

Much of the dash had been taken out of the German offensive. Cautious pressure was substituted for their once reckless sprints. They counted more heavily on aviation preparation, employing as many as 25 bombers at a time against a half-mile stretch of front making as many as a thousand flights a day over single points of importance. They brought out their new fighters, the Messerschmitt 109 F and Focke-Wulf 198. They uncovered also a new anti-tank weapon, a highly mobile 88-millimeter gun, transported on its own wheels, which gave the old panzer team of plane and tank a new running-mate. This was the same gun that caused the British a painful surprise in the western desert of Egypt. A fuller exchange of military information between the Allies might have spared the British and Russians some of the hardships of both having to learn about this gun by bitter experience. It was well known as an antiaircraft gun in Spain and France. The surprise lay in its conversion primarily into an anti-tank gun, its mass production, and the tactics with which it was employed.

The Russians struggled with their enemy in the Ukraine for two weeks. They obtained experience which was to prove valuable less than a year later in the second winter campaign. They also obtained the obvious advantage of fighting at a time and place chosen by themselves, rather than leave the Germans to select their own ground.

The Sovinformburo summarized the results of the battle, May 30, in a special communique. The losses were estimated thus:

German: 90,000 men killed or captured, 540 tanks, up to 200 planes destroyed.

Russians: 5,000 dead, 70,000 missing, 300 tanks, 124 planes destroyed.

The communique said the objective of the offensive was not to take Kharkov, but to divert thirty German divisions of infantry, six divisions of tanks, and a large force of artillery and aviation which had been concentrated opposite Rostov, a city which was proving to be one of the most important—and most difficult to defend—of the war. In this respect some temporary success was gained, for the Rostov sector itself remained quiet, the main German offensive was delayed.

The foreign correspondents were in a position to know that this explanation was not simply an excuse. Throughout the battle the censors eliminated any mention that the offensive was designed to capture Kharkov. This, incidentally, was one value to be derived from Soviet censorship. The blue pencil fell, not only on information which might prove harmful to the Soviet Union, but also on that which the censor knew to be untrue. Some of the best indications of the situation on the front came from a close examination of the censor's work. The dispatches that went out from Moscow told, almost without exception, the truth as it was seen by the correspondents and confirmed by Soviet authorities.

THE communique's figures told plainly the story of the difficulties the Russians encountered in the first large-scale offensive they undertook without benefit of winter. Seventy thousand men missing meant an entire Russian army lost somewhere in the fields of the Ukraine, its fate unknown. Certainly all those men were not captured, some went to swell the total of dead. For Russian men do not surrender easily.

The pangs they suffered were not the agony of a defeated, dying army. They were the growing pains of a young army, still to reach maturity. The materiel they lost could certainly have been used in the later desperate defense of the Volga, but the experience they won was valuable. The battle of Kharkov was not one of the bright Russian chaters of the war. After its conclusion, it was rarely mentioned.

The pace of the spring campaign, meanwhile, quickened. Hardly had the battle of Kharkov died when the propellers of hundreds of German bombers in southern Russia started turning, their motors roared, and they rumbled down their runways, nearly taken for Sebastopol.

For seven months the Black Sea port, last Soviet stronghold in the Crimea, had been under siege. The Germans had tried to storm the citadel the previous November. They lost ten thousand men, and failed. They had tried to bring the city to its knees in December. They lost thirty-five thousand men, and failed. They launched their final offensive June 5. Farther north, another German June 10 to have started on the main offensive was announced Kharkov front. In this hard-trampled arena the battle dwindled again to brief skirmishes. The drama of Sebastopol went its appointed course.

WE'RE HAULING 20% MORE FOOD—FOR THE MAN WHO DOESN'T COME TO DINNER

There is an unseen guest at your dinner table these days.

At every meal you are helping to feed him by consuming less food yourself.

This "man who doesn't come to dinner" represents our armed services, lend-lease, and reserves, which together have been allotted 30 per cent of our food production during the next 12 months.

Because total food production has been increased—in spite of his big allotment—your family will receive only about 10 per cent less food per person than consumed last year.

But Erie and other American railroads are faced with the tremendous task of transporting 20% more food than the record-breaking shipments of last year.

For the railroads, this job means the equivalent of one additional carload of food for every five carloads of food previously carried.

It is to the credit of your American railroads that no food shortages so far have been due to their failure to deliver food shipments.

In war, as in peace, the Erie and other railroads will continue to prove that no other transportation can offer such safe, fast, dependable, and economical service.

FUEL and HEATING COSTS
INSULATING YOUR HOME . .

Proper insulation means cooler homes in summer and warmer homes in winter. It also pays big dividends in FUEL SAVINGS. With our nation at war this becomes vitally important. Conservation of all fuels for war production has become a wartime necessity. Fuel MUST be conserved. Insulation will help do it, as will storm windows, caulking and weatherstripping. From 33 to 50 per cent fuel saving can be obtained in your home by the inclusion of these features. In a few seasons these fuel savers pay back your investment in them through lower fuel bills and your home is more comfortable. Why not investigate these improvements? If your home does not already enjoy the convenience of automatic gas heating, you'll have to wait until after the war to install it. But you can reduce heat loss now in whatever fuel you may be using . . . by proper insulation. When restrictions are lifted and gas becomes available for new heating installations we'll be glad to talk with you about changing over to this modern, carefree method of heating.

GOING TO SCHOOL ISN'T ALL
Reading, Writing and 'rithmetic!

SCHOOL is more than learning lessons—it's learning a way of life. Yes, it's learning to get along with all sorts of people!

You can help your children in school! Help by feeding them sensibly, getting them to bed early, listening to their problems.

And, before you even send them off to school, you can help by dressing them wisely and well.

See that they get shoes that support their feet, clothes that fit, outdoor things that are warm. That's the kind we offer at Penney's!

When you outfit your boy at Penney's, he looks like the real boy he is. If you shop here for your daughter, her friends will approve her style.

Penney's knows the children in this town—knows "what they are wearing." We know how important thrift is to mothers, and we offer top values.

We know these things because we at Penney's know this town—we're part of it. Your neighbors serve you when you shop at Penney's.

Penney's is as native to this town as the name on the railroad station.

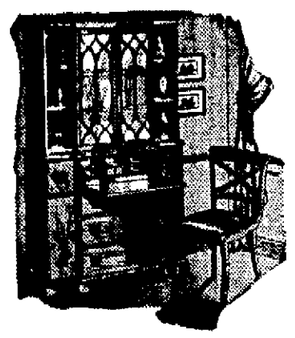
Dependable Furniture for 77 Years



WHERE did you get it?

Almost every day some one asks us, "Where did you get so much furniture when some stores are almost bare?" Well, the answer is pretty easy.

We felt sure that a city with as fine plants and as many workers as Marion would be called upon to play a big part in the War Effort. We knew if that was the case many new residents would move in too. So, we just bought "gillions" of nice things months ago when we could get them. We believe in Marion.

It's true that we are out of many things but we are sure that "if you can find it anywhere you can find it at Schaffner's." This is one of the largest small town furniture stores in the State of Ohio. Stores only get that way by being on the square and by practicing The Golden Rule. That's been going on at Schaffner's for 77 years.

Four Signed for Air Force At CAP Air Show Held in Marion

Four young men turned in their applications for enlistment in the Army Air Force Cadet Enlisted Reserve at the conclusion of the air show, held at Marion Municipal airport Sunday afternoon for the purpose of recruiting 17-year-old youths, and were given free airplane rides over the city.

The four youths are John Wesley Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ward of Waldo, Francis Ted Williams son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams of Marysville, Alvin Leland Linsenberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Linsenberger of Delaware, and Edward Stauger, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Stauger of Bucyrus. A number of other young men turned in applications which are not valid until they get the signatures of parents or guardians.

Featured at the air show was Harry Belville of Marysville, a pilot and a member of Marion squadron, Civil Air Patrol Army Air Force, who performed aerobatics in the air. The main event of the show was when Pilot Belville climbed his plane to 8,000 feet to begin a series of spins to within 1,500 feet of the ground. He completed 26 spins before pulling out to level off at the airport Sunday. On his climb to 8,000 feet, Belville looped his plane and performed other stunts.

Five-Plane Formation

Lt. W. R. Reichenstein and Lt. John H. Barnhart piloted the two planes which joined the three from Mansfield in a five-plane formation which circled the airport, flew over Marion, then back over the airport and landed.

Looping of two planes at 2,000 feet and two-turn precision spins were next on the program with the planes being pilot by Lieutenants Reichenstein and Barnhart. This was followed by message pickup and message dropping with Lt. Reichenstein piloting the plane. His observer was Pfc. George Brown.

Message pickup entails the picking up of a message off a line between two poles by means of a grappling hook, operated by the observer in the plane. Civil Air Patrol practices message pickup and dropping exactly the way it is done by the Army flyers on combat missions where there are no such facilities.

Parachutes Used

Sgt. Carl ... of Prospect piloted the plane used to drop a parachute on the field with Pvt. Scuffs as his observer. This is the method used in dropping messages, supplies or any other supplies to troops on the ground where landing is impossible.

CAP pilots from Mansfield squadron who participated in the program were Lieutenant officer Lt. I. D. Jacobs ... Lt. George Geeb, Flight Officer ... J. Panasew, Kenneth Wolfe and S. Sgt. Lt. E. O. Mott ... accompanied Flight Officer Parkow. Each of the other pilots was accompanied by an observer.

Young men interested in the Army Air Force Cadet program are invited to visit the airport office for complete information. They may also contact any member of Civil Air Patrol.

FINES PANTLESS PARKER
By The United Press

FORT SMITH, Ark.—T. A. Porter of Fort Smith is probably still wondering how he could have avoided getting that parking ticket, the circumstances being what they were. "I'm guilty," he told the judge, "but I think I have a reasonable excuse." "What is it?" Judge J. A. Gallagher asked. Porter explained that he had parked his car at a meter, deposited a coin, and had gone to the cleaners to have his pants pressed. He was "pantsless" when the parking time expired. "I couldn't very well go back to the meter without my pants," Porter said. "That is at least a unique excuse," the judge said. "You've said 'guilty,' however, so the fine is $1."

After Four Years of War

THE end of this month marks completion of four years of World war II and Germany is definitely on the decline just as she was after four years in the first World war. The German decline in 1918 began when her armies were stopped cold in France, this time her most damaging defeats began when another drive was stopped and rolled back at Stalingrad.

Some comparisons are striking. In 1918 Russia had been knocked out of the war and this time France is out—a good trade for our side as events have shown. Then Japan was a nominal but inactive enemy of Germany and now she is a powerful ally. Germany gained little by conquest 25 years ago but now her loot is tremendously valuable in prosecuting the war. Germany has gained as allies Rumania and Finland but she has lost Turkey.

The first was a one front war after the collapse of the Russian armies. This time both sides have had to divide their forces, the United Nations against Germany in Europe and Japan in the Pacific and Germany against Russia in the East and the United Nations everywhere around the whole edge of Europe.

In both wars, Germany's prospects were good until her rulers dragged the United States into the conflict but there is an important difference. In 1917 this country was wholly unprepared but in 1941 she had been getting ready for two years.

Military authorities incline to the belief that in both wars victory was in sight for the Germans and was thrown away by blunders on the part of their leaders. In the first the Germans withdrew from the first battle of the Marne when they were in a position to advance. In the second they stopped at Dunkirk when it is now revealed that England, 20 miles away, was wide open for invasion with the British spirit as its only battlement.

The summary shows the situation is one that calls for confidence but not for complacency. Germany is not yet knocked out and after that there remains a tough enemy in the Pacific. Much fighting is ahead but the comparison of these four-year periods gives us the best side of the balance sheet.

Kremlin Comes To Quebec

RUSSIA'S switch from the Anglo-American collaborationist, Maxim Litvinov, to relatively unknown Andrei A. Gromyko as head of its Washington embassy puts the Kremlin all the way into the Quebec conference.

Litvinov has been used before to give the United States and Great Britain notice of a new direction in Russian foreign policy. Marshal Stalin, knowing this would be the interpretation of Litvinov's withdrawal from the key post in Washington, has made a decision calculated to fortify all existing misgivings of Russian intentions in the post-war period. He deliberately has stirred doubt and mistrust. Ambassadors in important capitals never are changed lightly, least of all in wartime.

It is an event of major importance in the ticklish course of maintaining harmonious contact with the Kremlin. Yet, secrecy conceals both the cause and effect. The conferees in Quebec, where Russia is not represented, are confronted with a major development, perhaps of their own making. The relations of the Anglo-American bloc in the United Nations with Russia are given a new overcast of uncertainty. The governments which Russia spurned four years ago when it decided on a policy of collaboration with Germany again have been given notice of Russia's capacity for the unexpected.

American Territory Intact Again

THE sting of Japan's tactical surprise on Kiska is soothed by the fact that American territory is intact again. The would-be invader has been driven back from his closest approach, even though he made an escape through the net set to catch him.

Perhaps the greatest significance of Japan's invasion of Kiska is the indication of a new strategy, rather than the use to which the United States now will put the island. Japanese retreat is something new. Far from being a mark of weakness, it is a hint that Japanese strategists may have outgrown the folly of last-ditch stands against superior forces. If true, that would be a sign of improving leadership.

Whatever the reason, Americans are thankful that their fighting men will not repeat the hardships of Attu in their occupation of Kiska. While it is easy enough to understand why forlorn islands and areas sometimes must be the scenes of important battles, yet nothing points up the cruelty of war more clearly than struggle for places so nearly uninhabitable that they are not worth the loss of a single life, except for strategic reasons in wartime.

OPA's New "Buy and Sell" Proposal Reported Getting Cool Reception.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 — A heavy new pressure for government buying of certain of farm food products is coming up from within the office of price administration.

It was formally considered in the top row of the room a few days back but some arrangements were also made to have Mr. Roosevelt go on the radio to present it to the people. This fell through, partly because of the determined opposition of the farm organizations as well as the processors.

Instead, Food Administrator Marvin Jones went down to Monroe, La., to present a piece of it to an American Farm Bureau Federation meeting.

Mr. Jones did not say anything about wide-spread government purchasing of many food crops on the very expensive line advocated within OPA, but he did suggest the government would have to put many crop surpluses and that sale no doubt would involve some loss. Indeed that is the only idea to pay the farmer high cost for less, make the treasury foot the bill.

The Jones presentation can be accepted as a cautious sound-out of the farmers again on this theme, there is behind both "subsidies" and "buy and sell."

Mr. Monroe speech follows up a conference he had here some weeks ago with the various farm leaders in which he said high farm food prices must be maintained to promote full production, and, therefore, a government bill-footing program of some extent will have to be undertaken.

Meets Opposition

The leaders of the Farm Bureau Federation, the Grange, and the Co-Op council resisted the suggestion, only the Farmers Union refraining from expressing opposition.

Apparently the farmers do not like the regimenting aspects of the proposal, knowing the treasury loses from high buying and low selling will have to be paid in taxes. They would rather get their price in this kind of a market directly from the consumer, rather than have all the people foot the bill for a secret price increase.

The food processors seem to like the idea no better than the farmers. As Mr. Jones already has suggested, they would have to be licensed. The government would be over them, and in business alongside them.

The representatives of the processors have been busy here complaining against the rising plan of the administration, while the farmers and farm groups have been holding opposition meetings around the country. A group of farm bloc congressmen met in Minnesota a few days ago in obvious preparation for a tussle over the matter as soon as congress reconvenes Sept. 14.

The administration is plainly scared by this evidence of powerful political resistance. It seems to appreciate it is facing difficulties, and has been devoting itself lately to trying again to bring some farm support around to its side.

Broad Program

A full "buy and sell" program, such as the OPA group wants, would be something no government in the history of this world has ever seen, or possibly ever imagined. It would have to cover most of the important crops to be effective in restraining the cost of living—wheat, fruits, vegetables, meats, dairy and poultry products, and possibly corn.

For the government to buy any considerable portion of these crops would cost hundreds of millions of dollars, if not billions. One thing is sure. It cannot go into anything like this without getting appropriations from congress, and there, presumably, the rub will come.

The down-holding program so far instituted may be delaying the course of price inflation, but it, of course, has not met the demands of the labor unions for a roll-back to the last year price level of Sept. 15. Nor has it met the necessities of getting the farmers to increase production.

Subsidy On 2 Items

The subsidy program has been put into effect only on meat and butter. Some success is claimed for this in restraining the upward course of cost of living indices in July (the rising figure was off 8 of 1 per cent for the first time in this war.)

Caught perilously between these conflicting forces of the farmers, the unions and business, the administration obviously is up-toeing toward some method of making the treasury pay the cost of an unsatisfactory solution of some kind and thus avoiding a frontal facing of the price situation as it is.

Meat, Potato Outlook Good

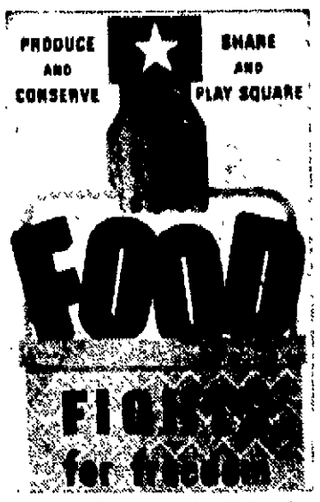
Pork and Spuds Expected To Be Plentiful in Winter.



Posters like this, distributed by the WFA, bring food front problems home to housewives.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Associated Press Features Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—Getting down to the meat and potatoes of the food situation, it looks as though a lot of pork chops and spuds will be available for civilian consumers this fall and winter.

You may not get as much meat, particularly beef, as you want, but a pronounced easing of the summer shortage is in prospect. Beef should be somewhat more plentiful.

The advance guard of a record population of porkers has been moving to slaughter houses. The backlog of hogs on farms is so large that the War Meat Board expects unusually heavy supplies throughout the fall and winter.

Marketing of cattle has picked up and a marked seasonal increase is expected this autumn. The summer beef famine was caused by animals being withheld from the market pending adjustment of the subsidy-price ceiling controversy.

Pasture Feed Good

Unusually good pasture feeding conditions also made withholding profitable for producers.

As pastures go dry, cattle move to market in larger numbers. The difficulty of obtaining feed corn also is figured to increase marketing. Some livestock observers think there even may be premature gluts of beef this fall.

In general, however, beef, veal and lamb supplies for civilians will run considerably short of demand. While the total estimated meat production of 23¼ billion pounds is the largest on record, the War Food Administration says ration allotments are not expected to be much increased over those of recent months.

The armed forces and lease-lend are allotted about 4.8 billion pounds of meat. Another billion pounds will be set aside to meet unexpected needs and to permit the government to get ahead on requirements during the peak production season.

Certain supplies of fish, fresh and canned, are running lower than last year and are much smaller than in pre-war years.

The poultry situation should be somewhat better this fall. The marketing peak is reached in October and November. The demand, however, probably will exceed the supply. Chicken consumption has gone from 18 pounds per capita in 1935-39 to 29 pounds. Turkey feasting has risen from 2.7 pounds to 3.8 pounds per civilian.

Potato Outlook

The 1943-1944 white potato crop is estimated at a record breaking 450 million bushels, with the supply for civilians figured at least 5 per cent larger than the quantity consumed in 1942-1943. But the demand will exceed supply.

Bumper crops are indicated for dry beans, dry peas and peanuts, all good protein alternates for meat. On the other hand, the year's production of truck crops such as carrots, cabbage, lettuce and tomatoes is somewhat smaller than last year. Victory Garden produce should substantially increase over-all supplies.

While civilian supplies of fresh deciduous fruits will amount to only three-fourths of the quantity eaten last year, fresh citrus fruits are expected to be as abundant in 1943-44 as in the recent season.

Canned fruits may be only about 70 per cent of the amount eaten in 1942-1943. The vegetable pack is smaller but canned corn and canned beans may be a little more plentiful.

| | 1935-'39 (Pounds) | 1943 (Est.) (Pounds) |
|---|---|---|
| PORK | 56.5 | 60 |
| CHICKENS | 18 | 29 |

| FRESH VEGETABLES | 237.2 | 224 |

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The metropolis of New York is a heap of ruins, bombed into rubble by Nazi warplanes, and the great American city is occupied by Japanese troops!

This is not a story of the present, the past or the future; just a "story" related by a German corporal captured in North Africa to an American commando.

In a letter to his mother in suburban Steelton, Victor Grubic related how some prisoners believed the United States was reeling in defeat and that the Japanese had swept across the entire country.

Grubic was a guard on one of the trucks which took German prisoners behind the American lines. A Nazi corporal on the truck said he had been advised, apparently by German propaganda, that New York had been destroyed by the Luftwaffe and that this had been followed up by a Nipponese onslaught.

Need Seen for New Foreign Economic Policy Based on Fact U. S. Is Creditor Nation.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THOSE who have read the preceding article in this series will remember that it contained a general account of our economic foreign relations. It will be convenient to summarize the story very briefly once more. From Colonial days until just after the Civil War we imported more goods than we exported, and borrowed abroad to pay the difference. From the middle '70s until the Spanish War our exports and imports were about equal, but we continued to borrow to pay the old debt. After the Spanish War we ourselves began to invest abroad, and by 1908 our net foreign indebtedness began to decline. In the first World War we paid off all the old debt and became a great creditor nation.

This new position called for a change in our economic foreign policy. But we did not adopt a new policy after the first World War. We need now to realize the consequences of our mistake. To do this let us in this article summarize briefly our economic experience after the other war.

The period from 1922 to 1928 is the important one to study. For by 1922 demobilization and relief had virtually been completed everywhere, and most Americans thought that they had returned to normalcy. The year 1928 is the end of this period of illusion, because that was the beginning of the world-wide economic collapse which engulfed us in 1929.

The Lesson

If we examine our foreign accounts during this period, we shall have a clear lesson of what it meant when, though a creditor nation, we behaved as if we were a debtor.

During these seven years we maintained a very high tariff, we promoted our foreign exports, and we insisted on collecting the debts owed to us. As a result, the rest of the world was called upon to pay to us in gold dollars on the average annually a total of $1,257,000,000. This was made up of $593,000,000 because our exports exceeded our imports of $465,000,000 for interest on ordinary debt, of $199,000,000 on war debt.

How did the world pay us these $1,257,000,000 a year? Our tourists abroad spent $467,000,000. Our immigrants sent back to Europe $227,000,000. Foreign countries sent us $41,000,000 of gold, and $50,000,000 more was made up on miscellaneous items like shipping charges and insurance.

But all this was still $472,000,000 short of what foreigners needed to balance their accounts with us. What did we do? We loaned foreigners, on the average annually, the $472,000,000. That is to say, we loaned them the money to pay what they owed us for interest on what they already owed us. Given our tariff and export policies, if we had not loaned it to them, they would either have had to stop paying interest, or they would have had to buy $472,000,000 less of our exports.

Depended on Lending

This meant that our ability to export goods and to collect what foreigners owed us, that the ability of debtor countries in Europe and South America to buy our imports and pay what they owed us, depended upon our ability and our willingness to keep on lending them more and more money each year. But it was obvious that the more money they borrowed in order to pay interest on money they had already borrowed, the more certain it was that they could never repay their debts.

For various reasons, which we need not go into here, the year 1928 marked the beginning of the end of large-scale lending by the United States and also by the other creditor nations — Great Britain, France, Belgium, Netherlands, Sweden and Switzerland. By 1932 foreign lending had fallen virtually to zero in New York and in London. The result was what was to be expected: debtor nations had to cut down their imports; to pay for what they nevertheless had to import, they had to make a tremendous effort to export. This brought about the collapse of the world economy which was the prelude to this war: the Japanese aggression took place in 1931; the Nazi revolution in 1933.

A few figures will show what happened when the world economy, which we and the British had kept going by loans, was suddenly denied new loans.

Look first at the fifteen debtor nations, which included Germany, Italy, Japan, Poland, Canada, Argentine, Brazil, Chile, Colombia and Australia. By various devices, and for lack of money which

Paul Whiteman Double-Crosses Paul Small Into Vaudeville and It's Going Over in Big Way.

By DAMON RUNYON

PAUL WHITEMAN, the famous orchestra leader, was once about the size and contour of a barrage balloon, but he diets himself down to a mubbin of his former proportions and thereby unwittingly did a dissemitze to a pal.

Paul Small, 6 feet 3 inches, and heft of pounds which closely matched the figure of the old Whiteman, was making a name for himself doing impersonations of the great man. He even doubled for Whiteman doing a dance in the leader's movie "The King of Jazz."

Paul Small did not know that Whiteman had shaken off upwards of 100 pounds of flesh until one day he appeared before an audience that was familiar with Whiteman in his fully rotated form and essayed his impersonation with baton swinger. The audience reacted unfavorably to the matter.

"The guy ain't nothin' like Whiteman," said, "Whiteman's practically skinny."

So there was poor Paul Small plumb out of the impersonation business. There was nowhere else around plump enough for him to impersonate. He thought some of dieting down to Whiteman but when he reflected the chow he would have to skip at that he did not then have the heart, but he afterwards mustered sufficient food resolution to shrink to 220.

HOWEVER, before this happened Small had been out of the impersonation racket for a spell and was devoting his energies to what some old time show folks thought was a rather grisly chore. He was exhuming vaudeville, long considered refunct. He had moderate success with a show in Chicago backed by Al Boasberg of New York called "Highlights," featuring Joe Everglades Lewis, Bert Wheeler and Bert Lahr. But Small did not regard his grave digging in the light of a steady job. So one day about a year and half ago he was off in a plane to the Pacific coast and got to playing gin rummy and gossiping about show business with Fred Finklehoffe.

The latter is a youngish screen and radio writer, co-author with Joan Monks of "Brother Rat," a Broadway success of several years ago. His interest in show business was perhaps increased by the fact that he was engaged to Miss Logan, the well known singer. He was "considering" to Small if vaudeville could be completely revived.

"Sure it can," said Small. "You develop the dough, and I'll prove it."

OUT of this little chat came "Showtime," the first of the Small-Finklehoffe series. George Jessel, Jack Haley, the De Marcos and of course Miss Logan, as the stars. Finklehoffe put up about $20,000 that he had sweated out of a typewriter. Small thinks his partner will have felt amply repaid even without the dividends that came later because it gave him the opportunity of standing in the wings at each performance and applauding Miss Logan. The great enthusiasm which must have been generated by Miss Logan as she is now married to Finklehoffe.

"Showtime" made money on the Pacific coast and broke a record with a thirty-eight week run at the Broadhurst in New York. Then they put out "Bigtime" with Ed Wynn, another winner, and now they have "Laughtime" with Frank Fay, Bert Wheeler and Ethel Waters running successfully in Los Angeles and about to stand in San Francisco. The Wynn show is to be revived in Boston this fall, and the combine has taken a long lease on a New York theater. Small-Finklehoffe is definitely a going concern.

BIG, bland Paul Small, now 33 years old, was born in Brooklyn. Despite his size he was once a dancer and an acrobat. He used to fill in with the celebrated Ben Hamid acrobatic troops when they needed an extra. He was "a ton of fun" doing a single in vaudeville. He was with Whiteman for some years and a member of the staff of the William Morris Theatrical agency for seven years, handling its night club business.

Paul Small views the future with a cheerfulness that sags only when he reflects on the fact that he can no longer eat up to his old standard, because his wife, the glamorous Kay Taylor, is opposed to his ever again casting a old double shadow.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA—In civilian life he may have been heir to a great fortune, but in the Army—especially in the Army in New Guinea—he's just a guy named George.

George Jay Gould Jr., of New York City and Paris, France, is just a maintenance man in the radio department of a heavy bomber group. As an enlisted man he's barred from various officer's clubs on the island, as a matter of course. Yet he's the scion of one of the great banking families of the U. S.

Staff Sgt. Gould, who has spent most of his 25 years in France, has been recommended for his superior for Officers' Candidate school. His family and friends think he ought to be a major, the black-haired, unassuming rich man does his own laundry and has eaten Army chow for months from a mess-kit which he must wash and dry himself, says:

Accident Toll High

CHICAGO—Accidents—97 per cent of them preventable—cost the nation $5,200,000,000 and 380,000,000 man-days of work in 1942, the National Safety Council reveals in its annual statistical yearbook, "Accident Facts."

On-the-job accidents killed 18,500 workers—500 more than in 1941—injured 1,700,000 (150,000 more than in 1941) and resulted in loss of time sufficient to have built 18,000 bombers or 55 battleships.

All-accident death totals in 1942 (all occupational) were 93,000 killed and 9,000,000 injured.

In an Illinois county, city workers are recruited this spring for emergency crop work with the aid of a sound truck. A second truck followed the sound truck up the recruits.

Kharkov, Kiska 2 Fine Victories for Allied Arms

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Kharkov and Kiska—two ... terribly unpleasant to the east, and a ... little chance of them for the allied cause.

The Red Army's capture of the great ... city ... the key center of Kharkov by storm undoubtedly will be regarded by historians as one of the real victories of the Russo-German war.

The ... of this strategic Ukrainian city on Hitler's main ... and vastly increases the menace to his entire battle line in Russia. It brings him dangerously near to the day when he will have to withdraw his forces to fresh positions—if indeed he isn't already preparing to withdraw them—and get ready for the long drive toward the line of the Dnieper.

Fierce and bloody fighting is in progress as the Nazis strive to hold on and the Reds bring themselves on the invaders with fresh fury in an effort to complete the capture of Kharkov. The Russians announce a deep break through on the Donets river front to the south, and if they can develop it they might precipitate a debacle.

No Time To Rush

However, that contingency is at the moment just a wishful thought, and we shouldn't rush out to no-man's land in advance of the Red army. The Germans are master soldiers and one would expect them to be able to maintain their line if they have to retreat. Their chances are doubly good, since the fall rains will start in two or three weeks and are likely to slow the Russian advance greatly.

Still, after the rains will come the freezing, and then the Reds will continue their assaults as they did last winter when they drove the Hitlerites back over vast areas. Hitler's position at the best isn't enviable, and if the allies are able to invade western Europe this fall, anything can happen to the all highest.

What a change from a year ago, when Hitler drove clear through to Stalingrad and almost forced the mountain passes into the lower Caucasus! He started from Kharkov then — and broke his back at Stalingrad. From the moment of his failure there, his fate was sealed. The energy he wasted in trying to capture that industrial city, which takes its name from Stalin, represents one of the greatest blunders of the war.

So much for Kharkov. The affair of the missing Jap garrison of Kiska is one of the strange stories of the war. The perpetual fogs of the Aleutians still shroud in mystery how it was that when the American and Canadian forces swarmed up the rocky shore to do battle, they found this important base as empty as Emperor Hirohito's honor.

Results Are Important

Still, what matters is that the Nipponese have gone. We don't know how they went, but we know why they went. They were driven from the island by the terrific aerial and naval bombardments which had been going on for over a year. During that period American bombers blasted the island with over 5,500,000 pounds of bombs.

It was utterly hopeless for the Japs to try to hold the position, and so they snelved their suicide-code for once and did the smart thing by clearing out. I think we are making the mystery too complicated when we try to get more than that out of it.

The meaning of this victory? Lt. Gen. John L. DeWitt, commander of the western defense command, gave one of the highlights when he declared that "the reoccupation of Kiska has cleared our shortest highway to the Japanese empire." This means that from Alaska, via the Aleutians, the long arm of our air power will be able to reach out and smash the Nipponese homeland.

But the reclaiming of Kiska does more than that. It has cleared the Japs out of all north American territory. The danger of any major attack on Alaska is now slight. We have removed a menace to our communications with Russia from Alaska. By the same token we have cleared the route to Japan's northernmost naval base of Paramushiro in the Kurile islands.

America and Canada can breathe a lot more comfortably with Kiska once more in our hands.

FOOT POWER. Gasoline is even scarcer in England than in the United States, so Miss Kathleen Kennedy, daughter of the former U. S. ambassador to the Court of St. James, pedals a bicycle to perform her duties with the American Red Cross in London.

GREEN TO ADDRESS OFL WEDNESDAY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 24—The Ohio State Federation of Labor's 59th annual convention studied war manpower problems today as it awaited tomorrow's address by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, former Ohio coal miner now vacationing at his Coshocton home.

It will be Green's first appearance before the state group since 1939.

The convention received a warning at yesterday's opening session that failure to solve employer-employe differences would mean "more government interference."

Little Chats on Public Notices

By JAMES E. POLLARD

Ohio State University.

THE LETTER VS. THE SPIRIT

Like some other public officials, a certain probate judge permits the publication of Public Notices in a suburban newspaper. This particular county has a population of about 350,000. The paper in question, however, is circulated in only one outlying section of it.

Yet notices concerning the appointments of guardians and of administrators of estates appear in this publication for persons in all parts of the county. The court here is complying with the letter but not with the spirit of the law. It is an all too common illustration of laxity in regard to compliance with the Public Notice laws.

In all cases the intent of these laws is to give the widest possible publicity to such notices. This is for the protection of ALL concerned. If the laws were more specific or if the public which pays the bills were more insistent, such dilution of the Public Notice laws could be cut to a minimum.

HIGH ARMY OFFICERS IN TRIPLE SHIFT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—A triple-shift of army three-and two-star generals was announced by the war department today with Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum relinquishing command of the First army and eastern defense command to become chairman of the Inter-American defense board.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley D. Embick, who has been chairman of the Inter-American board, goes to an undisclosed assignment described as of "key importance."

Maj. Gen. George Grunert is assigned to New York, apparently as Drum's temporary successor, with the title of deputy commander of the eastern defense command and First army, responsible for the security of 55,000,000 Americans along the eastern seaboard.

The Inter-American board, representing 21 American republics, is charged with devising measures necessary for hemispheric defense.

ISLAND JUNGLES TOUGHER THAN JAPS

By The Associated Press

HONOLULU, Aug. 24—Jungle-experienced American officers who gained first hand knowledge of the Japanese at Guadalcanal and New Georgia brought back reports today that the terrain is a greater enemy than the Nipponese warrior and that much of his reputed fanaticism is a myth.

"Terrain is really our main difficulty in the Solomons," said Col. Douglas B. Gillette of San Antonio, Tex., senior engineer in the New Georgia operations, in an interview.

Lt. Col. George G. Freer, 43, whose wife and two children live in Ashland, O., told of spending 15 minutes one night in Japanese-held Bairoko harbor where the enemy still clings to a foothold on northern New Georgia.

While moving with a group of soldiers in a Higgins landing boat, bound for Rice harbor northeast of Bairoko, Colonel Freer and his men were strafed by a Japanese float plane.

"The coxswain was so excited he got in the wrong harbor," Colonel Freer related. They found themselves among six or more Japanese barges.

"It was pretty dark so, keeping silent, we managed to get out, he added.

Returning Pilots Report Berlin 'Hamburged' by Bomber Waves

By LOWELL BENNETT

Representing the Combined American Press

Distributed by The Associated Press

A MIDLANDS BOMBER BASE, England, Aug. 24 (Berlin was "hamburged" last night for 45 minutes by hundreds of specially trained RAF bombers in the most widespread destruction ever wrought in the heart and brains of the European axis.

The entire force was composed of Lancaster, Stirling and Halifax planes, making it probably the biggest single operation so far of the war.

Airmen returning to this base were unanimous that it was the best raid they had made.

From 250 miles away on the homeward flight the crews saw vast fires and the last wave of bombs reported smoke billowing upward 15,000 feet.

In the first wave was Sgt. Path-Gunner John [illegible] of South Bend, Ind., making his 23rd operation.

"There were lots of night fighters, but the anti-aircraft fire was scattered and didn't bother us," said Sgt. Gunner Edward J. Murphy of Richmond, Quebec flying in "F for Fox" on his 14th mission. "About 200 searchlights lingering around managed to catch some planes, but the real light was on the ground. The fires even at the beginning were terrific."

Defenses Weak

Pilot Officer Frank Bedingham of Essex, England, who piloted "A for Apple" in the last wave, said he was amazed by the impotence of the defenses which "weren't much stronger than those in Italy. But in Berlin there were four square miles a mass of fires, with 4,000 pounder cookies landing everywhere."

Pilot Flight Sgt. John Adams of Coolangera, New South Wales, who flew in "N for Nan," one of the first ones to bomb the city reported the defenses well saturated "but the smoke and fires were something to behold. I reckon they will be fighting fires [illegible]

Five Youths Land in Juvenile Court

Two youths, ages 12 and 14, taken into custody yesterday morning by sheriff's deputies for allegedly entering the Wesley Jenner home northwest of Big Island last Friday, were released to their father this morning in juvenile court. A revolver taken from the home was returned to the owner. After being taken into custody the boys were taken to the detention home where they remained until this morning.

Three boys, ranging in ages from 10 to 12, were brought into juvenile court late yesterday afternoon by city police when they were found with bags containing books, games and other merchandise taken from Marion stores. Judge Oscar Gast ordered them to return the stolen property and report to him immediately. They were released and ordered to report to their parents.

Kentucky Girl Free on Bond in Slaying

By The Associated Press

BURLINGTON, Ky., Aug. 24—Pretty Joe Ann Kiger was free on $25,000 bond today following a surprise move in which she waived the preliminary hearing on charges of murdering her father and brother.

The hearing had been scheduled for this afternoon in the Boone county court house before Judge Carroll C. Cropper.

Following a conference yesterday between the prosecution and defense attorneys, the hearing was waived and bond set. Jo Ann's case was remanded to the next session of the grand jury of Boone circuit court which will be next December.

The auburn-haired school girl, who marked her 16th birthday Saturday in the Boone county jail, has steadfastly denied she shot her father, Carl C. Kiger, 49. Covington city commissioner, and her youngest brother, Jerry, 6, as they slept in their summer home near Devon, Ky., early last Tuesday.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 24—A walk-[illegible] the war labor board [illegible] to be serious [illegible] production of Lt. [illegible] needed airplanes" in view of labor's no-strike pledge [illegible] today at the Bendix Aeronautical Corp. plant here.

Frederick Rabel Jr., president of the corporation, said "all airplane production has stopped" at the plant, one of three operated by the corporation which made Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder, chairman of the board after the navy department took control of the plants for a month in 1942.

The fourth naval district said the guards were charged with refusing to take their posts in violation of their oaths of allegiance. Earl however, said the guards had [illegible] assignments and working [illegible] on the basis of seniority.

LODGE BACKS DRIVE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24—The Loyal Order of Moose 35th annual convention adopted a resolution to underwrite $25,000,000 for purchase of war bonds in the third war loan drive. Roy Yoke, supreme councilman, of Parkersburg, W. Va., said the goal would be attained through individual member purchases.

Budget Approved by Council

late and classified property taxes come through as hoped.

Other Increases

The budget has some other increases besides the pay boosts. The city parks are set up for $10,000 as compared with $2,000 this year. The police department put in enough for a new cruiser. There are other scattered increases throughout the budget, most of them small but aggregating a substantial amount.

Some of the big items in the proposed spending schedule for next year are police salaries, $54,307; fire department salaries, $82,588; street lights, $25,000; hydrant rentals, $23,000; garbage department salaries, $45,000; sewage treatment works salaries, $10,400; hospital salaries, $85,000, other hospital expenses, $65,000.

For debt purposes, the city will need $13,140 inside the 10-mill tax limitation and $15,180 which has been voted outside the 10-mill limit.

A long discussion was held about the predicament of J. W. Willoughby of 335 Cherry street who, through his attorney, Grant E. Mouser Jr., told council he has had water in his basement during every heavy rain since the city repaved Cherry street back in 1936 or 1937. Mr. Mouser said Mr. Willoughby has been making trips to city hall at intervals since that time trying to get at the cause of the trouble and get it remedied. Mr. Mouser declared there had been some "buck passing," said Mr. Willoughby was willing to pay the expense if the corrective steps were properly chargeable to him, but said he had been told by at least one sewer worker that his sewer lines were properly connected and that the trouble apparently was in the city lines. City Engineer T. S. Cathers answered that he hadn't been able to figure out what was wrong, declared that there are "three sewers" on Cherry street and that all are functioning properly and asserted he didn't feel the city was at fault. The matter was turned over to the newer committee for investigation.

Dog Law Gets "Teeth"

Council put "teeth" in the "dog ordinance" last night, backing up the board of health's quarantine on biting dogs by providing a penalty of $1 to $10 for violations. The health department contended it needed some penalty to make the quarantine effective. Councilman Pearl Sells, owner of two dogs, voted no, commenting he had owned dogs for 60 years and hadn't had any trouble yet. Incidentally, Mr. Sells in earlier years won wide attention by displaying dogs, hitched to small wagons, at county fairs.

Council also:

Authorized Safety-Service Director Caldwell to lease a Sargent street apartment for the city hospital superintendent for $40 a month, the same quarters the superintendent has been occupying for several years.

Approved appointment by the mayor of M. C. O'Brien to fill the term of R. L. Poland as a member of the board of trustees of the sinking fund and the appointment of Ralph O. White as a member of the same board to take the place of the late F. E. Guthery. Appointment of a successor to Mr. Poland was made necessary by the fact that he moved to a residence just outside the city limits.

Heard a petition to correct a sewer condition at the east end of Adams street extending west to Barnhart and south to Mark street.

Heard a request to open culverts that stop drainage of a ditch along Van Buren street, resulting in surface water running into basements.

Heard requests for attention to Darbee quarry because of the room that collects on it, for correction of sidewalk conditions on Forest street just south of Mt. Vernon, on Mt. Vernon avenue east of Summit street, on North Main street near the Konkle monument shop and Kenton avenue between the railroads, for repair of Keener avenue and Broad streets, for repair of sidewalk on Oak street where houses are now being built, and for the elimination of weeds on a lot between Avondale and Toledo avenues, between the sidewalk and curb on the second lot south of the Oak street school and in the Rosemary addition. It was reported rubbish has collected in the first alley south of Church street running east from Hane avenue to Seffner avenue.

Councilman Black, commenting on an inquiry he had received about a former alley just south of the Greenwood school, reported old council records show the alley had been vacated in 1896.

Union Head Protests Cleveland "E" Award

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 24—R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), said today he had protested to the war department a proposed Army-Navy "E" award to the Thompson Products Co., of Cleveland. Thomas contended the firm had defied an NLRB order to disband a "company union" and asserted "such defiance would make such an award a laughing stock."

Frederick G. Crawford, company president and head of the National Association of Manufacturers, said he had "no idea what Mr. Thomas means by the statement." He added that his company had "one of the finest committees (labor-management) ever organized."

Epworth Defeated by Cooler, 9 to 2

Universal Outhit but Pushes Across Six Runs in Fifth Frame.

Although they [illegible] played one [illegible] ball, the Universal Cooler [illegible], stamped [illegible] in the [illegible] in the first inning by [illegible], piled [illegible] runs in the fifth on a combination of errors and walks, to defeat the Methodists, 9 to 2, in the second game of the Little World Series at Lincoln park last night. A [illegible] 400 people attended the contest.

The win over the Methodist, Sunday School league champ, evened Cooler [illegible] in the opening series game Friday night, makes Cooler [illegible] favorite to [illegible] the city crown. The [illegible] Universal [illegible] will [illegible] Friday night, when they meet the winner of Wednesday night's return tussle between Coca-Cola and Epworth. The Coke-Methodist contest is a [illegible] game, the losing team having certain [illegible] from the Series.

If Cooler wins Friday night, it will become the 1943 Marion softball champion.

After the cold-storagers had finally powered across two runs in the fourth frame on a tremendous homer by Bigford, they were handed six runs in the fifth altogether by mechanical miscues on the part of Epworth fielders and pitchers Roy Everly and Bob Virden. A total of six walks and three wild pitches were issued by the two Epworth flingers, in addition to three errors by some Clarkite inner gardeners and outfielders, as well. Not a hit was belted by Cooler in the fifth stanza.

Waits for Walk

Gerald Partlow led off the fifth by waiting out pitcher Bob Virden for a walk. Lloyd Hart then streaked all the way to second on an error by first baseman Everly. Partlow scored on the muff. After Virden had heaved a wild one against the screen, permitting Hart to reach third, John Clark immediately substituted Roy Everly on the mound and sent Virden to centerfield.

The switch did not show any [illegible] notewor[illegible] results for Everly [illegible] pitcher, [illegible] the slow-curving Virden. After first baseman Petter of Cooler had fanned, Everly, now opposing his brother, Bill L[illegible]ly, who toiled the entire game for Cooler, walked big Joe Darnell. After Barney Evans, Epworth short stop had booted one to place dangerous Chuck Reid on first, Darnell scored on an Everly walk and Reid eventually sped in on one of Roy's two wild offerings. Ken Dillinger and Don Atkinson, the last two Universal runners to score, tallied on the same error, a miscue by Bob Scott, Epworth third baseman.

The Epworth boys outhit the Cooler clouters, 7 to 5. However, they did not outfield the Industrial tallies.

Roy Everly marked up the initial Epworth tally in the first inning, which sent the Methodists into a one-run lead, held for a brief inning and a half stretch. Everly laced a single, burning up the ground into left field. It apparently was too hot for left fielder Hanovich to handle for Steve allowed the ball to race through him, out to the distant left field fence. Everly scored all the way from first on the error.

Scores First Run

Don Bigford scored the first Universal run in the last of the second after he had walked. He came to second on a single by Dillinger and was forced to third on another Virden pass. Bigford scored when Tom Moran, Epworth catcher missed a Virden twirl for a passed ball.

Leland Kelly, Epworth short fielder, chalked up the second and last Methodist counter in the first of the fourth. He got to first on an error by third sacker Joe Darnell, who rarely committs such blunders. After advancing to second on a fly ball, Kelly was driven in on a double by Tom Moran.

Bigford also scored the second Cooler run on the first homer of the series and the only second circuit clout seen at Lincoln park in the last two weeks. Lamb, Galion All-Star shortstop homered against the Huber Threshers 10 days ago. The Bigford four-bagger, was a mighty blow, especially for softball. It went sky-high and drove left fielder Kelly back about 15 feet from the left field fence. The drive must have traveled 340 feet on the fly. No one was on the base when Bigford unwound.

Don Atkinson scored the final Cooler run of the fifth canto on a double by Pitcher Bill Everly.

Indian, Boston Series Now 2 To 1 in Tribe's Favor

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24—The current eight-game series between Cleveland and Boston stands at 2 to 1 for the Indians, today, the result of a pair of victories by second string pitchers and a loss by Veteran Ace Al Smith.

The Red Sox picked on Smith for 13 hits, three of them two-baggers, in the seven innings he worked yesterday, defeating the Indians 9-7 in the opener of a scheduled bargain bill. The afternoon game was delayed to Thursday by weather.

The two teams move to Cleveland stadium for a double-header today, and back to League park for another twin bill Wednesday. The Tribe had two triumphs Sunday.

Held hitless by pitcher George Woods until the fourth inning, the Indians broke into the scoring column when Jeff Heath poled his fifth home run in six days over the wall, boosting his total to 14. Roy Cullenbine blasted another circuit clout in the eighth.

The Sox held a 9 to 3 lead at the eighth inning, with Woods and Outfielder Leon Culberson batting in a pair of runs apiece to help the cause along.

The Indians tallied in the fifth on a double by Mickey Rocco and a single by Mack, and scored in the sixth on a single by Orris Hockett, walks to Heath and Cullenbine and a long fly by Rocco.

The four-run eighth inning started with Cullenbine's round-tripper. Buddy Rosar and Rocco doubled and Ray Mack singled to produce three more, and send Woods to the showers. Tex Hughson came to the mound and put down the uprising.

NOTES FROM THE CLUBHOUSE

WITH AP SPORTS WRITERS

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 24—There won't be as many sore shoulders as usual this year at the Grand American Trapshoot!

The reason? Well, the clay target marksmen will be "kicked" only 500 times, instead of 1,000, by their 12-gauge shooting irons.

Fritz Howell

Hampered by war - occasioned restrictions and a drastic shortage of scattergun ammunition, the "Roaring Grand" has been slashed from eight to three days. The program, scheduled Aug. 25, 26 and 27, has been cut from 1,000 targets to 500—thereby saving each full-route entrant 56 boxes of shells.

A year ago more than a million exploding shells sent reverberations up and down the Miami valley, but no one has any idea how many shots will be fired in the 44th annual classic.

One thing is certain—all the ammunition fired will be "toted" in by the shooters, for the big shoot is on a "bring your own shells" basis for the first time. Previously, the entrants were forced to buy their ammunition on the grounds, or face disqualification.

Cost Cut, Too

With the program cut to 200 targets at 16 yards, 100 at doubles and 200 at [illegible] the scattergun entrant will find a big cut in entry fee, too. In former years a shooter participating in all events, with a cut of "optional" wagering on the side, paid about $350 for his share of firing. That was in addition to his transportation, meals, hotel bills and other incidentals.

However, he stood to win much more, for the prize list was in the neighborhood of $50,000—the grand finale handicap alone offering a guaranteed purse of $10,000. That guarantee will be off this year, the prizes being set to correspond with the number of entrants.

While dropping the bars on ammunition—none being available for sale these days—the Amateur Trapshooting Association has stuck to its load limitations. Hunting ammunition may be used in the big shoot, but the shells must not contain more than three drams of powder and one and one-eighth ounces of shot.

Last season, although America was at war, the event drew more than 1,100 shooters from the Western Hemisphere. Represented were all the states, all of Canada's provinces, Mexico, Cuba and the Canal Zone. The big handicap attracted 965 shooters, fourth largest attendance in its 43-year history.

Expect Large Entry List

This year's entry isn't expected to drop off much, despite the shell shortage and travel difficulties. Several state shoots set new attendance records this year, 334 attending Ohio's championship affair for a new national mark although the fixture was on a "bring your own shells" basis.

Not many years ago there was no charge for spectators at the "Roaring Grand," but the fans flooded the grounds and almost crowded out the shooters. Now there's a gate charge—for the sole purpose of holding down the number of spectators. The gate receipts go to the Red Cross and the USO.

With ammunition at a premium, no practice rounds will be permitted at the Grand, each contestant going "cold" to the firing line.

Chances are "old men" will dominate the shoot, the youngsters being involved in a more serious bit of shooting in other parts of the globe. But the oldsters can furnish their share of the color, among them being:

Charley (Sparrow) Young, 80-year-old Springfield, O., star, who won the $10,000 handicap with 100 straight in 1926, and who stands to win about $13,000 if he can do it again; Forest McNeir, the Houston, Tex., veteran who holds the Carnegie Gold Medal for heroism and many trapshooting titles; Mark Arie of Champaign, Ill., who has won more than $150,000 in purses and trophies with a second-hand gun, he bought for $40 about 30 years ago; and Frank Troeh of Portland, Ore., who has been winning clay target titles for as long as even "Sparrow" Young can remember.

DARNLEY CAPTURES GREENVILLE RACE

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, O., Aug. 24—Placing first in both heats, Aaron Williams' Darnley captured the $7,084 Horseman's futurity, feature event of the Darke county fair's harness racing opening program here yesterday.

The Corning, N. Y., brown colt took the 3-year-old trot in 2:04¾ and 2:06 with Austin Hanover, owned by Wilco Farms of Logansport, Ind., second in each heat.

The 1943 Hambletonian winner, Volo Song, placed eighth in the first heat and was scratched for the second because of a minor leg injury. Phonograph, owned by Joseph Burke of Plainfield N. J., also was scratched after placing tenth.

Judge Patchen, owned by J. E. Kelly of Bangor, Me., took the 2:24 pace for a $300 purse in three straight heats in times of 2:07¾, 2:05½ and 2:08¼ with Red Abbe, owned by Dr. Paul Bernard of Sabina, O., placing second, fourth and second.

The $500 two-year-old pace's first heat was won by Anti-Aircraft owned by Kelly and the second heat was taken by Gay Adam, owned by Gray Brothers of Providence, R. I., in 2:10 and 2:11.

ATHLETICS TRY FOR RECORD BOOK SPOT THROUGH BACK DOOR

One More Loss and They Tie Mark for Consecutive Losses.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Athletics seems to know enough baseball to understand that records are made to be broken.

Left to their own devices, the awkward A's have a chance to set a modern major league record. This record, of course, is for losing games. Connie Mack's meandering troupe lost two more to the Chicago White Sox last night, 7-6 and 7-0, to make 19 consecutive defeats.

This is just one short of the longest losing streak in the big leagues since the turn of the century and the A's not only have a chance to tie this time-worn standard tonight, but to wipe it out. They are scheduled for another twilight-night doubleheader at Chicago.

If they hurdle this obstacle in record-breaking style, the 1943 Athletics will have carved a niche in diamond history and they might even pass the lossingest team of all-time, the 1899 Cleveland club in the National league which tossed off 24 consecutive defeats.

The A's had a chance to win their twilight tussle last night. Going into the ninth inning tied, Bob Estalella smacked a two-run homer that put them in front. This was too much for the Athletics, however, and in the last half of the inning, after Guy Curtright had homered with one on to tie the score, relief pitcher Russ Christopher walked his rival moundsman, Gordon Maltzberger, with the bases loaded to force in the winning run. In the second game Orval Grove pitched a six-hit shutout.

The New York Yankees bounced back against the Detroit Tigers to win 4-1 with Bill Zuber pitching six-hit ball and Joe Gordon and Nick Etten each driving in two runs. Gordon's came on his 12th home run.

The Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 9-7 despite homers by Jeff Heath and Roy Cullenbine and a four-run eighth inning rally by the Tribe.

Weather forced postponement of the second game of doubleheaders scheduled at both Detroit and Cleveland.

Washington's struggling Senators rallied for five runs in the 10th inning to beat the St. Louis Browns, 10-5 after Stan Spence had hit two home runs in the regulation distance, but the Browns beat their former teammate, Johnny Niggeling, 2-1 in the second game.

In the only game in the National league, the St. Louis Cardinals breezed to a 14-5 triumph over the Boston Braves with a 19-hit attack in which all the Redbirds shared.

Reds Play Final Game in Eastern Park Today

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24—The Cincinnati Reds take their final fling on an eastern diamond this season tonight when they play the Philadelphia Phillies.

Following the contest they move home to prepare for a four-game joust with the league-leading world champion Cardinals.

If the Reds win tonight they will sweep the Philly series and take back home one of the best road records in recent seasons. The tour shows 4 wins in 20 games to date.

Despite this good showing, the Reds have been able to gain little ground on the Cards who are still in front of the second-place Cincinnati team by an even dozen games.

Recreation Turnout Growing

Total of 2,420 Listed As Having Participated in Activities Last Week, Setting New Record.

Last week's total recreation playground attendance of 2,420 excelled by 291 the highest registration mark reached over a Sunday period during the previous 10 weeks of the recreation program this summer. During the week of July 24, a total of 2,129 persons were counted at the city's four playgrounds.

Of the total attendance last week 1,687 represent participants, or over two-thirds, were tabulated at Lincoln and Garfield parks.

Last week also was the first time since the week of June 14, the second week of the recreation program, that Lincoln park was bested in attendance by one of the other three playgrounds. Garfield, with 953, the largest weekly turn out for one playground, was tops last week.

Probably two-thirds of the total Garfield participants were registered when the Huber Co. held its employes' picnic at the east-side park Saturday according to Joe Petrich, Garfield director. He commented that every possible source of recreation activity was utilized by the picnickers.

McKinley park finished third last week with 383 registrants and the Oakland-Marion Steam Shovel unit at the bottom with 380.

Vic Dorris, city recreation supervisor, said, only the Lincoln park Saturday attendance figures could be accurately reported. A total of 132 were counties at the northside playground Saturday, he said. The Oakland attendance Saturday, spoiled by the picnickers, considerably boosted the swimming attendance averages for the summer.

Miss Helen May, assistant director at the Oakland playground, said the first picnic of the summer was held at that recreational unit last week. However, even with the initial picnic, Oakland attendance continued on the downgrade last week.

According to R. G. McCracken, McKinley park director, basketball now ranks as the number one activity at his playground. For a good part of each day last week, boys of varying ages practiced up on basket shooting or organized into teams to brush up on passing and other cage fundamentals.

Supervisor Dorris said the playground championships in the citywide horseshoe tournament, sponsored by the recreation commission, would be completed by the end of the week. He estimated about 60 men, women and children entered the shoe-tossing tournament. The winners of the doubles and singles events in both divisions (under and above 17) will meet at Lincoln park Labor Day for the city horseshoe championship.

field of world operations," in the light of "many gratifying events," which had taken place since they met last in Washington in May.

Further conferences probably will be necessary, and at shorter intervals, they said, as the war effort of the United States and Britain "spreads and deepens."

The Pacific decisions reached here on the historic heights above the St. Lawrence, they said, can only emerge in action.

"It may, however, be stated," the allied chieftains said, "that the military discussions of the chiefs of staffs turned very largely upon the war against Japan and the bringing of effective aid to China."

T. V. Soong, Chinese foreign minister, was here representing Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in the latter stages of the war counsels.

Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill said that in the field of the conflicts against the Nipponese, as in the European theater, they had received and approved unanimous recommendations of their combined chiefs of staff.

Political Questions Settled

"Agreement was also reached," they said, "upon the political issues underlying or arising out of the military operations."

The President and prime minister apologized to the press for being unable to provide them with an exciting announcement on results of the war deliberations here and for their inability to describe it with a slogan or phrase which might mark it for the future.

Churchill voiced hope, however, that events in weeks and months to come would justify the hard work which he said had been expended here in Quebec on the allied plan for victory.

On the whole, the British prime minister said, things are better than when he met the President at Casablanca and at Washington last May. Another great operation has been successfully accomplished, he said, with all Sicily prostrate—but apparently enjoying it.

Churchill said he looked forward to great steps being taken to beat down the enemy one after another. Strong and healthy accomplishments have been achieved in Quebec, he added.

After referring to the superiority which the allied arms had obtained in equipment and munitions and the growing successes against the submarine menace in the Atlantic, Churchill predicted that Britain and the United States would be able to bring the whole weight to bear on the foe —the blows to come with what he termed the superb operations of our ally, Russia.

The developments to be brought about by the growing power of allied might, the prime minister said, should help the anxious, suffering millions of the world to come out of the dark valley through which they have had to toil for four long years

Includes French

Churchill hastened to remark, when prompted by MacKenzie King, that he was thinking of the British and the French. China, of course, he said, has been in the war for seven years. The Quebec conference, the prime minister declared, is a milestone on the path towards bringing the period of world tribulation to an end. No doubt, he said, there will be others.

Mr. Roosevelt chose in his remarks to stress the part the people of the allied nations are playing in the effort to bring total victory. Conferences are important, he said, but so are the efforts of the people in the mines, factories, and fields.

Churchill applauded his statement. All in all, the President said, the conference has been a tremendous success.

He and Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt continued, had sat up into the early morning hours trying to prepare some spot news for the press conference and had failed utterly.

On his theme of the manner in which the people are assisting Mr. Roosevelt said that the war was not being run by conferences alone, since the problem goes far deeper than that. The war effort in the field has gone extremely well, he said, but it is from the average citizen that soldiers get the things they eat and wear and the ships which move them.

War Effort Praised

There has been a magnificent effort in all of the allied countries, the Chief Executive declared, and it must be kept to a high pitch.

Military, naval and airmen can not win the war alone, Mr. Roosevelt added, but must have their work implemented by the people in vital industries.

Reviewing a bit of past history which preceded that which has been made here in Quebec, Mr. Roosevelt recalled how it took weeks and months to prepare some offensive action. When he and Churchill met in Washington in June, 1942, with things looking pretty dark, he said, the allies were pretty much on the defensive around the world.

But at that time, the President added, the invasion of North Africa was planned for November 1942.

Last January at Casablanca, he said, were developed the plans which have been carried through in the operations in Tunisia and then in Sicily.

Mr. Roosevelt said he thought it could be assumed that other plans are about to be developed.

He left one gap in his story, one question unanswered; what was planned at his meeting in May in Washington with Churchill?

That left the way open for speculation that the long expected invasion of the continent was mapped then and that the Quebec conference was designed to check and recheck the plans of operation.

To Separate Tomorrow

Tomorrow, Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill will be on their separate ways. The President will address an informal session of the Canadian parliament in Ottawa at noon tomorrow, then move in the direction of Washington.

Churchill plans to go fishing for a few days, and probably will go to Washington before he returns to Britain. He will remain in the Quebec area at least until Saturday night, when he is expected to make a radio broadcast from here.

EAGLE SCOUT AWARD GIVEN

Vernol Orth Honored, Other Awards Presented at Charter Ceremony in Church.

The presentation of a troop charter for the 1943-44 year and the presentation of the Eagle Scout and two Star Scouts highlighted the annual court of honor and rechartering ceremony of Boy Scout Troop 15 at the Emanuel Lutheran church, Monday night.

Some 135 persons, including Scouts and their guests attended the ceremonies, which got under way immediately following a potluck supper in the church basement at 6:30.

Vernol Orth Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernol Orth, of 254 South Greenwood street, was presented the Eagle Scout award, which was one of the court of honor features. Orth, in addition to engaging in numerous troop activities, also served as provisional camp director and waterfront supervisor at Camp John A. Owens, this summer.

Rowland R. Peters, president of Harding area Boy Scout council, made the presentation to Orth.

Star Awards

The two Scouts to receive Star awards were Charles McCurdy and Paul McAllister. Walter Axthelm, a Troop 15 committeeman, made these awards.

Edward Axthelm, Charles Brown and Robert Short were advanced to the rank of first class Scouts. Recognition of advancement was made by Floyd Wertz, chairman of the entertainment committee for last night's program.

Kenneth Russell was the only Scout to receive a second class award, given by Charles McCurdy Sr., Troop 15 committeeman.

Charter Presented

George Flatman, Marion district Scouting commissioner, presented the 1943-44 troop charter to W. H. Sibberson, Troop 15 Scoutmaster. Application for a re-charter of Troop 15 was made several weeks ago.

Following the indoors phase of the court of honor, some 30 Scouts in Troop 15, staged the traditional camp fire ceremony on the church lawn. Logs, placed inside a tent which was erected on the lawn, were ignited by the Scouts to secure the proper atmosphere for the ceremony. The Scouts then gathered around the tent and sang old Scouting melodies.

Major Jones of the Marion Engineer Depot corps addressed the Scouts prior to the camp fire ritual on the Scouting oath and law. He explained the benefits which Scouting brings in later life and said that his three sons, two of whom are in the armed forces, were former Scouts.

The decorations and flowers were in the Troop colors, red and yellow for last night's program.

Following is the entertainment committee for last night's program: Floyd Wertz, chairman, Mrs. Floyd Wertz, Scoutmaster Sibberson, Mrs. Sibberson, Mrs. Paul McAllister and Mrs. Charles McCurdy.

REUNIONS

SULSER

The twenty-eighth annual Sulser reunion was held Sunday at the North Canaan Community house east of Caledonia with 100 relatives and guests present. Officers elected were Raymond Sulser of Martel, president; Gary Sulser of Martel, vice president; Miss Marie Sulser of Marion, secretary; William Beach of Crestline, treasurer. Members of the family in the armed service include Sherman Sulser of Martel, stationed in Australia; Robert Sulser of Martel, at Camp Perry, O.; Cecil Sulser of Galion, in Georgia; Verlin Sulser of Galion, station unknown; Lewis Sulser of Fostoria, in Sicily; Howard Sulser of Martel, Washington state; Gaylord Fletcher of Martel, Mississippi; John Noe of Galion, Pennsylvania; Charles Tharp of Edison, Maryland; Ralph Downs Jr. of Martel, station unknown. ## Ohio Soldier Wins Medal for Heroism

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 24 — For probably saving the life of a fellow airman through heroic action in a critical moment, Staff Sgt. William M. Semsch of Struthers, O., has been awarded the Soldier's Medal.

While a bomber aboard which Semsch was serving as radio operator was on a bombing mission in March, 24 the plane's pilot, overcome by fumes, lost control of the plane, which was reported to have gone into the Solomon sea.

Semsch, suffering himself from a bomb burn on the back of the neck, noted the pilot of the engineer, a much heavier man than himself, with the other, and brought the engineer safely to a sandbank.

DEVICE ADDS 2 MILES TO FIGHTER CEILING

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 24 — A new type Rolls-Royce aircraft engine with a two-speed, two stage supercharger has been in volume production for several months by the Packard Motor Car Co. and is being used to power the new North American P-51 Mustang fighter plane, George T. Christopher, Packard president and general manager, announced today.

Packard has been building Rolls-Royce power plants for nearly two years for P-40 F Warhawk fighters, British Hurricane fighters, big four-engined Lancaster bombers and Canadian-built Mosquito bombers. These engines have featured a two-speed, single-stage supercharger.

"In effect, this new engine raises our warplane nearly two miles higher," Christopher said.

In the new engine two small multi-bladed rotors, or stages, compress the thin air of high altitudes until it is six times the surrounding atmospheric pressure.

horses ran on virtually all tracks in the nation, associates said.

Murphy quoted the woman's husband as saying he saw his wife fall. A scream in a window was ripped asunder, Murphy said.

Detective Chief Leo Phillips said the case appeared to be suicide, but E. E. Smith, Franklin county coroner, said he was starting an immediate investigation and ordered the hotel room left undisturbed.

Mrs. Eli Long was known to a number of Marion county residents, having come to Marion with her husband last year to show horses at the Marion County Fair horse show. The Longs also have horses entered for this year's fair horse show starting Sunday night.

Some Marion horse fanciers have been acquaintances of the Longs over a period of years, but their circle of acquaintances here was increased through their participation in the Marion event a year ago, the first horse show held here in recent years.

Catholic Group Hits Women's Dress Styles

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 24— The National Catholic Women's Union says that the styles of women's clothes in the last few yas and especially since Pearl Harbor, "have become progressively more offensive."

The union in resolutions adopted at its annual meeting asserted "costumes for sport and play are shamelessly brief. Skirts have long been raised above the knees and sometimes above the thighs, shorts are worn publicly by women and exposure of the body is deliberately employed to create a sensation."

The union comment on the subject is that such clothes are corrupting society, that save manufacturers who sponsor a change which could come only from corrupt minds contributing directly to the moral breakdown of the people and of freedom, but one of patriotism.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

A LITTLE warning bell sounded deep inside my consciousness. That Milner was staging a theatrical performance of his own I was sure, and it behooved me to watch my cues. But I knew that the name McIntyre struck no chord in my memory, and after a half second's reflection I gave him a negative answer.

"I do not remember having recommended anyone to you at any time," I said, "and off-hand, the name means nothing to me. But—I meet so many people—I might be mistaken."

"I hate to ask you this," he said, "but would you mind seeing the boy? You see, he insists very positively that he knows you at the theater, and that you told him to come here and ask me for a job as a bell boy."

A Weary Gesture

I brushed my hand over my eyes wearily.

"It is all very confusing," I murmured faintly, "but, if you consider it vital, I will see the boy. But I do not wish to enter into any conversation with him. I do not forget faces readily, and I shall know as soon as I see him whether or not I have ever talked with him."

"That is all I wish you to do, and I shall be so grateful if you can bring yourself to see him," Milner said effusively. "I will not trouble you with a recital of why it is so vital, but please believe me that something most important hinges upon your identification—or lack of it."

"That is why I am consenting to see him," I said, purposely letting a bit of impatience creep into my voice. "Where is he?"

"Just outside," he answered. "I took the liberty of bringing him up with me, so as not to delay matters if you should consent to see him."

Annoyed By the Farce

I almost shouted at him: "Do get on with this farce!" but put an iron clamp upon my impatience as I murmured, "It is perfectly all right. Bring him in, but I really must ask you to make haste."

Katharine caught my cue and bent over me with carefully simulated anxiety.

"You are sure you are not facing your off ten minutes?" she asked anxiously.

"No," I answered faintly, "but—"

She turned to him authoritatively:

"Please get through with this business as soon as possible," she said. "I really should not have permitted it, in the first place."

He was already at the door.

"It will take not a minute or two," he said apologetically, then, raising his voice a trifle:

"Edwards!" he called. "In here!"

The next minute a stocky man with "house detective" written all over him, came through the door, with his right hand firmly gripping the arm of a nondescript-looking lad about 16 years of age.

McIntyre Introduced

"This is McIntyre," Mr. Milner said crisply. "He says you said you would recommend him to me."

I looked at the boy closely, then shook my head. I was certain that I never had seen him before, anywhere. But before I could voice my denial, he uttered a shrill protest of his own.

"That ain't Missis Graham!" he declared.

"What do you mean?" Milner demanded sternly. "Of course this lady is Mrs. Graham."

"I don't care!" the boy insisted stoutly.—"She ain't the dame over at the theater that told me her name was Mrs. Graham, and told me to come to you for a job. This dame is older, and her hair is red. The other one's hair is black."

"Take him out and down to my office, Edwards," the manager directed, and I fully expected to hear him follow the command with: "Off with his head!" But instead he turned back to me as Edwards propelled the boy from the room, and bowed stiffly.

"I am so desolated to have troubled you," he said. "Now I must find out whether he is making his story up out of whole cloth, or if there may some woman at the theater who is impersonating you."

"I think that is most unlikely," I told him "but I shall be interested to know what you find out."

Fatigue Reduced

MARY HAS been working at a punch press. It has been equipped with all the safety devices, but in spite of that one day last year Mary nipped off the end of one of her fingers.

But that was before the machine was painted in contrast shades, so that her eye detects constantly the part that did the nipping.

Industry has found that color plays a great part in building up efficiency. Color, says Faber Birren, in the "Sight-Saving Review", is emotional and creates emotions, and in a factory you can create pleasant emotions and stimulating emotions, and loyal emotions—loyal, that is, to your employers."

There has been a great deal of research done on this question of colors in factories. I don't know how scientific it is, and confessedly some of it sounds pretty nutty, but I have given up laughing at psychologists.

The average solid citizen of our sensible country would probably reply to the question of how to make a factory more efficient from the standpoint of vision—"Use plenty of light and make everything white." The iconoclast who is in on some of the modern ideas would say — "Give them plenty of color, to pep them up and make them happy." To all of which the industrial vision psychologist would say — "Wait a Minute."

First, he believes in what he calls "change of pace" for the employe. Work is monotonous. One color is monotonous. So such spaces as corridors, wash rooms, rest rooms, locker rooms and lunch rooms should be painted differently from the rest of the plant and from each other.

Using Color Intelligently

Research in color preference and in sale of consumer merchandise shows that men react better to blue, and women to soft rose. Here then is a natural for the wash rooms and locker rooms. In cafeterias peach is the ideal color, considered the most attractive of all light hues by the average person.

Now about the white interior. White undoubtedly reflects light and illuminates the machinery, but it may do so too much and lead to fatigue. When the worker is placed next to the wall, the area faced should be gray instead of white. White walls may constrict the size of the pupil and lower visual efficiency.

The human eye is quick in adjusting itself to brightness, and slow in adjusting to darkness, so a white wall will hold advantage over a dark machine, and it is into the machine that sharpest vision is directed.

Gray for walls up to approximately eight feet from the floor, then white above for better illumination. The immediate environment of the machine should be passive in order to avoid competition with the job.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, Aug. 25

A rather critical state of affairs is read from this day's astral configurations. There may be excitement and emotional reactions detrimental to the successful launching and progress of important projects. Also there might be a sinister undercurrent, with suspicion and treachery to be sidestepped. Be careful with all papers and documents affixing the signature with especial precaution. Granting this, there should arise very encouraging openings for advancement, progress and productive work of high order.

Those whose birthday it is have much to gain by definite programs of vigilance, foresight and clear thinking. While ammunition, saves and major operations are in order, with skill, aggressive measures, and sagacity, there should be a successful putting over of worthwhile projects. A substrata of deception, treachery and fraud may need vigilance. Also there may be a menace from emotional upsets or other temperamental behavior.

A child born on this day may have much skill and varied abilities, with force and character, but may find is difficult to put brakes on its emotions and impulses.
